What did you appreciate most about this guest lecture?

I liked how he kept most things pretty basic so we didn't get too caught up in the weeds.

Light hearted

His passion about the subject

I loved that he tried to meet us where we were at. He asked if we've taken stats before so that we aren't puzzled by the vocab he will use. I really appreciated that gesture.

Ended early

I appreciate that he came prepared with graphs and organized slides, and tried to be interactive with the audience during his presentation cared about what he was talking about and explained it simply as possible

He took the time to properly explain the concept! Explained everything at a college level did not overcomplicate the subject with flashy words.

Explanations were understandable and thorough.

His explanations / reasoning behind the research and results

The research was very interesting and more shocking than I originally predicted!

Feels connected to his research, wanted us to understand, connected to audience

The use of graphs

He obviously has a passion for what he does.

Explanations were very straightforward. I always appreciate conciseness and given adequate context.

All

The lecturer had good vibes he explained things well and checked in if we had any questions frequently

I liked learning about how you chose cricket to observe worker productivity, I would not have made that connection.

How organized everything was

Matt was able to simplify his research to be very approachable and more easily understood.

Is there anything you would like to see the guest lecturer do to improve his/her teaching?

no

There were a few things that he over complicated, but overall, he was great!

I hope you can explain more examples.

Maybe explain certain topics less like about baseball and about statistics (independent and dependent variables) it will save time to get to the more important takeaways

Maybe being more confident in his information especially when answering questions

He did great! He can totally be more confident!

Timing was slightly off, however, given the 25 minute time constraint, I definitely understand that the ability to convey such valuable information within that constraint is hard to do. I feel like we received a rather well portioned and well done presentation despite the constraints. Very informational and awesome.

No

N/A

Some context not needed if whole room already understands concept! :)

I think maybe working on his timing since we didn't get a chance to fully cover all the slides

Everything was perfect

More audience/class participation when time allows (we were a bit limited today)
